LISA A. LIBERATORE, MD., FACS BOARD CERTIFIED OTOLARYNGOLOGIST WILL PERFORM A LIVE FUNCTIONAL ENDOSCOPIC SINUS SURGERY AT MANHATTAN EYE & EAR HOSPITAL FOR THE 2010 SINUS FORUM

Dr. Lisa Liberatore was asked by The 2010 Sinus Forum to perform a live surgery, titled Applied Decision Making in Complex Surgical Situations scheduled for Friday, July 16th at 9:50 AM at Manhattan Eye & Ear Hospital. The case will be transmitted live via satellite broadcast to all participants to The Grand Ballroom at Waldorf Astoria which is the venue for this year's forum. There will be over 500 ENT physicians from around the globe in attendance.

The 2010 Sinus Forum brings innovative technologies to the New York City stage, July 16th & 17th, for this year's ENT collegial discussion. They are guided by their commitment to the collegial exchange of ideas among peers, the advancement of minimally invasive technologies and applied sciences. The 2010 Sinus Forum pushes its exploration into broader-based and more challenging topics, including discussions outside of the sinuses and innovative technologies beyond balloon dilation. The Sinus Forum offers CME credits, Didactic and Hands-On Workshops and a prestigious panel of discussants. In addition to live cases, they offer a 'Challenging Case Competition' which invites participants to submit their most interesting and educational cases related to otolaryngology. The goal is to present a variety of cases using suggested topics to guide case submissions.

Participants of The 2010 Sinus Forum explore current controversies, participate in pioneering concepts, experience peer-to-peer learning, and apply science that puts the benefit of the patients first.
